DEFENSE ALERT HERE FRIDAY

Speed Tempo Of Centennial Preparations

Members of the central committee organizing the Civil War Centennial Festival here June 23-25 today announced mounting interest in the Village-wide celebration.

The central committee, under coordination of Dr. J. W. Kopriva, is in the midst of ambitious planning to make the three-day Festival a fast-moving affair of interest to all age groups.

Latest addition to a full calendar of events is a beard-growing contest for which entries are now being received.

Other special projects and activities include assembly of editorial and advertising material for a souvenir book to be published for the occasion; a costume contest for women and children, torchlight parade, a public barbecue, flower and art exhibit, 1860 beauty contest, and a series of one-act narrations. To set the mood, windows of business establishments will be decorated with Civil War relics, costumes and other mementos of the period.

All residents possessing relics, old photos, letters and mementos of the 1800's are urged to contact Joan Larson or Robert Wilton concerning their loan-out for the Festival.

Centennial preparations are being sparked by the Lions Club, Antioch Woman's Club, American Legion, Antioch Garden Club, Palette & Masque, Chamber of Commerce, Antioch Township Republican Club and interested individuals.

The Centennial fete is an all-community event in which all organizations are invited to participate.

City Officials To Take Office Here Tuesday

Elected Village officials will formally take office Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the board in the Village Hall.

Taking office will be incumbents: Murrill Cunningham, president; Clarence B. Shultis, clerk; Ernest H. Glenn and John M. Blackman, trustees.

New to the board will be Richard Folbrink, police magistrate, and H. Roger Williams, trustee.

GOP Names Meisgeier Pct. Chief

Township Republicans have named Gilbert Meisgeier, Fox Lake, as acting committeeman, Precinct 3, Antioch Township. Meisgeier replaces Francis Lee Griffith, who resigned the post.

The action was taken Monday at a meeting of Republican committeemen of Judicial District No. 1, at Joe & Helen's, Loon Lake.

Encouraged by success of the first annual Republican dance held March 25 in Lakewood Park, Round Lake, GOP committeemen approved plans to hold an annual dance in early spring.

The next meeting of district Republican leaders will be held in Grant Township, May 9, at which time new officers will be elected.

Present officials of the organization are: Warren Bushnell, president; Charles Billings, temporary treasurer; and Helen Burke, secretary.

CC Accelerates Member Drive, Charts Activity

A program of community efforts over the months ahead will be outlined tonight when the board of directors of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce meet in C of C offices at 407 Orchard Street.

High in discussion will be progress and results of a survey of all business, professional and tradesmen in the Village. The survey, being conducted by John L. Horan, executive secretary, now includes 186 in the business community, of whom 35 are 1961 C of C members.

Horan did not disclose anticipated membership, and said: "No, it is not expected that all 186 will sign up in the Chamber. But they will be invited, as they are part of the community."

The monthly meeting of the revitalized organization will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday at Lorenz Smart Country House. Business sessions will follow dinner.

On Monday's program will be John P. Cannon, president of the Libertyville Chamber. Cannon is plant manager of the Morton Manufacturing Co., Libertyville.

Check Those $5 Bills - They May be Phonies

Residents of the area have been warned by the U. S. Secret Service to be on the lookout for phony $5 bills.

Agents said that 17 bills discovered in the Waukegan vicinity were believed passed by a Chicago counterfeit ring broken up in February.

They said the bills are of poor quality and easy to recognize. Serial numbers of the two series of bogus bills are: B 7150095A and B 77400926A.

Lettering in the red seal on the right side of one of the bills is inverted, agents said.

High School PTA To Install May 3

Installation of officers will have top spot at the final school year meeting of the high school PTA, 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 3.

The show will feature garments and ensembles made and modeled by home ec students. Organ music will be by Mac Ryan. Refreshments will be served following the program.

PTA officials invite parents and friends to the evening affair.

Chop $60,000 From Wilmot High Proposal

WILMOT, Wis. — Wilmot High School's Board of Education will report its reaction to a trimmed-down version of its expansion program at a meeting May 10.

The proposed building project would lop $60,000 off the original proposal of $340,000, which was rejected.

The reduction in cost of building expansion would be accomplished through a narrower hall, and elimination of new entrances to the gym along with other changes.

PTA RADIO PROGRAM

The Antioch High School PTA will present a program over Radio Station WKRS on May 13. Tentative time is 3:15 p.m.

30-Minute Radio, TV Blackout

Antioch will join the rest of the nation in a 30-minute radio and television "black-out" in a special Conelrad non-military defense drill tomorrow at 3 p.m.

The alert drill will be part of nationwide survival and recovery program.

The drill will be the biggest in the nation's history and is designed to test nation-wide survival and recovery actions to deal with "enemy attack."

Local action during the alert will be in charge of John L. Horan, director of Civil Defense, who today announced that the following plans in connection with the alert are:

(1) A siren will sound when alert signals have been received in Antioch.

(2) All radios should be immediately tuned to Conelrad Station 640 or 1240 for broadcast instructions for Civil Defense.

(3) On hearing siren warnings, the public should stay close to shelter as a safety measure.

(4) Motorists are to keep close watch on highways for mobile fire apparatus and first aid equipment participating in the alert.

(5) The role of the police and fire departments and Rescue Squad has been coordinated, Horan announced.

Radio nets participating on a voluntary basis will include those of police and fire departments, highway departments, railroads, taxis, industries, amateurs and conservation departments.

Aviation and marine radios and international radio message services will be the only major transmitters exempted from the drill by the Federal Communications Commission.

Friday's alert drill is part of a five-day program of Operation Alert 1961, the eighth annual civil defense training program for improving the nation's nonmilitary defense.

The entire program will be under the direction of Frank B. Ellis, director, Office of Civil Defense and Defense mobilization, who declared:

"It is the firm intention of OCDM, under direction of President Kennedy, to bring home to the American people their spiritual obligation to prepare for survival and to aid in the survival of others. Operation Alert 1961 should assume a new dimension in our thinking."

"It is more than a training exercise for preparing the civilian population for self-protective measures during emergencies. It is a challenge to all of us to support the peace-preserving efforts of the President by demonstrating that we are strengthening our home front."

Other local action in connection with the alert program this weekend will include a second attack warning Friday in the hours following the afternoon Conelrad signals, and general mobilization of county equipment Sunday afternoon at Lake County Fair Grounds.

Soo Line Crossing Turned Down by ICC

The high school has been refused permission to install a guarded crossing over the Soo line tracks to connect school property east and west of the tracks.

The refusal was passed down by the Illinois Commerce Commission in recent action.

The high school had proposed installation of a warning bell, flashing lights and gates, and had been negotiating with railroad officials in the matter. Total cost would have run approximately $16,000.

Board of education officials had deemed the crossing more feasible than an overpass or underpass which is now under study.

Grading of the 20 acres east of the tracks owned by the high school will get under way when weather permits. The area is being developed into an athletic field.

EDITORIAL

The Task Ahead

With overwhelming endorsement, Village voters returned incumbents to office last week.

This endorsement most certainly must be a bellwether for these officials and should serve as a constant reminder of the confidence of villagers in the future growth of the community and their faith in the elected officials to continue this progress.

The community has moved forward in many respects and will, we are confident, continue toward bigger and more ambitious projects. Much has been done. Much remains to be done.

There is the matter of more economic stabilization to even the winter valleys and summer peaks. The relocation of industry here, now in progress, must be stepped up. A dying Chamber of Commerce is being revitalized and when in a healthy condition will do much to secure the Village as a natural shopping center for the area.

A Junior Chamber is in the process of organization and needs all assistance it can muster.

There is need for a coordinated effort on Civil Defense, a central agency to channel the relief efforts of local organizations; there is need of more village-wide, cooperative activities such as the Civil War Centennial now in planning.

Much has been done. Much remains to be done. Our village officials can set the tone by their leadership and guidance. Citizens can follow through in enthusiastic, coordinated efforts.

There's room for all to pitch in and help.

Tax and Spend, Spend and Tax

In the light of all our national history, we agree —

(1) That it is not wrong to believe in a balanced budget.
(2) That it is not wrong to resist the pressure of various groups for special favors from the government.

(3) That it is not wrong to plan to apply something each year to the reduction of our staggering national debt.

(4) That it is not wrong to question the advisability of continuing the payment of certain governmental subsidies.

Most agree on most of these matters. Yet - the trend of government during the last 30 years would indicate that we do not agree on all. So, we have been on a wild ride of —

(1) Governmental spending which has multiplied the federal budget 25 times in just 30 years -

(2) Excessive taxation which erodes individual initiative -

(3) Government by credit card while piling up unending accumulations of debt -

(4) An unending inflation which, if allowed to continue unchecked, will wipe out the value of savings, pensions, insurance and other fixed income items and consign us to bankruptcy.

These evils, if allowed to ride out of control - will destroy this free land just as surely as if the Communists were given unbridled rein here.

We have come to take for granted an over-protective government and its infinite authority to tax and borrow and tax and spend.

We have grown so accustomed to such overpowering bigness in everything we do that the individual dwindles down to a mere statistic . . . and his individuality is destroyed.

Let Uncle Sugar Do It!

The best way to solve community development problems is to get all kinds of local organizations working together on a comprehensive, do-it-yourself program.

This is the view of Arthur H. Motley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

On the specific side, he said that legislation now pending in Congress "could kill chambers of commerce and other local voluntary organizations working for community developments . . . (and) could eliminate independent local government."

That's quite a statement. But Mr. Motley has evidence to support it.

More than 250 local subsidy bills are pending. They provide federal aid for repairing streets, sidewalks, bridges, parking lots, recreation facilities, garbage disposal facilities, sewage and sanitation facilities, police and fire protection and many other local matters.

The thinking behind such proposals can only be that the federal government should do everything.

If this be the case, local government along with civic groups might as well shut up shop and call it a day.

Then, in the matter of federal taxes, controls, and regimentation, it will be a case of "we ain't seen nothing yet."

Boat Owners Must Register Craft

Persons registering boats for the first time in Wisconsin will pay a $2 registration fee under the state's new boating law. The $2 fee applies to boats not already registered and will be valid for two years.

Those who registered last year are not required to register this year, according to the Department of Conservation.

By law, all boat licenses expire March 31, 1963. Owners who sold or destroyed boats must inform the department so that records can be altered, it was announced.

If you want to sell — phone 43 or 44 and tell.

State Lifts Licenses

In recent action, the Driver License Division office of Charles F. Carpenter, has revoked the driver's license of John Murawski, 340 Cedarwood Lane, Antioch, for driving while intoxicated.

The division also suspended the license of Gerald A. Drucker, Petite Lake, Lake Villa, for three violations.

Your State Senator Reports

Experts in the field of juvenile delinquency agree that there is no substitute for parental discipline and responsibility.

The Illinois General Assembly, while recognizing the existence of grave juvenile problems, finds it difficult to pass laws to require parents to perform their jobs.

However, several bills being considered at the present session should encourage parents to behave like adults and discourage juveniles from becoming delinquents.

An important measure which has just passed the State Senate gives county boards the authority to pass curfew ordinances. If County authorities exercise and enforce this authority, youngsters under 17 will be forced to go home after 10 p.m., to be with their parents—where they belong.

Another measure, Senate Bill No. 92, will affect the more serious cases of juvenile delinquency by permitting our county courts to impose restrictive orders against the parents in such cases. For instance, parents of such children might be ordered not to frequent a tavern at night when they should be home with their children. Indeed, where a parent is violent or indulges in other offensive conduct around the home he may be ordered to desist from such practices or to stay away from his own child.

The judges of our juvenile courts favor this new authority as they have found much truth in the expression "There are no delinquent children, there are only delinquent parents."

The Illinois Public Aid Commission has endorsed Senate Bill No. 92, with the hope that this may be useful in many cases of aid to dependent children—to reduce the incidence of illegitimacy.

It is hoped that enactment of these two bills may place the juvenile delinquency problem where it belongs—in the home and with the parents. Our lawmakers want to be homemakers.

Courthouse Notebook —

BY LOU DURKIN

To the surprise of practically nobody Karl Berning, West Deerfield Township supervisor, was re-elected chairman of the County Board Monday for another year term during an abbreviated afternoon session.

The county board postponed the meeting until the afternoon so the members could attend the funeral of Richard B. Seyfarth, assistant state's attorney and special counsel for the board, who died suddenly last Saturday.

In an emotion-choked voice Berning paid tribute to his late colleague before continuing with the routine of the board. The board will convene again on Friday to set up the new committees.

New board members were seated yesterday with six men taking their place on the county's governing body.

Only two of the new members unseated incumbents who were seeking re-election, John Balen, of Waukegan, occupying the seat formerly held by Assistant Supervisor Mickey Gargas and Clarence Voras taking over the post formerly held by Robert Brown, of Elia Township.

A familiar name returned to the board when Robert Depke took his place as Warren Township Supervisor replacing John F. Williams, who did not seek re-election.

Depke's father, Justus Depke, preceded Williams on the county board. Harrie B. Muir, a board grey-beard in years of service, relinquished his seat this year and was replaced yesterday by Bert Gyllenberg.

Membership of the board was increased by two with the seating of John A. Shafer, of Benton, and Bruce Frost, of West Deerfield.

Both of these assistant supervisor posts were created as a result of the 1960 census.

In welcoming the new members to the board Chairman Berning reminded them that they were county officers and represented all of Lake County and not just their particular townships.

The re-election of Berning was in sharp contrast to the board election of 10 years ago when an even split on the board blocked selection of a chairman for 28 roll calls.

The leaders of the two factions, the late Carl Staben, of Waukegan, and Supervisor Emmett Moroney, of Deerfield, finally worked out a compromise for the post by settling on Supervisor Muir.

The battle for board control between the two board factions produced fireworks at that time that have been missing in recent years as the board goes through its paces with only occasional oratorical outbursts, usually on regional arguments.

Despite the campaign assurances of Judge Thomas Moran that he was ready and able to handle the work of Probate and Circuit Judge practically everybody around the courthouse expects that there will be a special election to fill the Probate Judge post vacated when Judge Moran moved up to Circuit Judge.

There are several attorneys reportedly eager to step in to the post, but they all want somebody else to institute the mandamus action demanding that the county board abide by the state law and hold the election.

Any candidate who institutes the action automatically insures his defeat because he will be the blame for the added financial burden on the county.

It's unfortunate that the law provides for filling the post, but it is also too bad that the authorities have to be ordered to abide by the law.

Rumors are cropping up again that Walter Atkinson, former sheriff and county political leader, is coming out of retirement to run for sheriff again.

If he does it will put the sheriff's office in an untidy spot since Charles Larson has been expected to move up from his chief deputy post.

It will come as no surprise if County Coroner Robert Babcox makes another stab at the sheriff's post which should generate some real interest in the race.

SIDELIGHTS from SPRINGFIELD

By Rep. PAUL SIMON

Imagine, for a moment, that you are a prisoner in one of the state's penitentiaries.

After serving part of your term, you might be eligible to receive parole. If you are granted parole, then you have supervision to help you adjust to the new life "outside."

But let's say for one of a number of good reasons—which may have nothing to do with your conduct or rehabilitation—that you are not given parole. You finally are discharged after serving your time, with a little off for good behavior.

You may not have been on the "outside" for 25 years; you might be crippled and blind; you may have all kinds of emotional problems—but you receive not one bit of help from the State of Illinois.

The prisoner on parole—generally the one who needs help the last—is given help. The prisoner who is discharged is just dropped flat.

Right now many workers—with no prison record—are having a hard time finding a job—but the fellow who must carry the label of being an "ex con", has an extremely hard time to get started. The result is that many in desperation go back to doing the very thing that got them in prison.

Last week I introduced a bill to change this, a bill which has the support of Joseph Ragen, director of the Department of Public Safety, and the support of Eugene Zemans, executive secretary of the John Howard Association, the leading group working to rehabilitate men who have served in prison.

The proposal would set up in Illinois a law similar to that which the federal government has. A prisoner would be given a "conditional release" 90 days before his discharge. During those 90 days he would be given help and supervision just as any parolee would receive. If he goes bad, he must return to prison to serve out his term.

Those first 90 days are important, since this is when most "repeaters" get in trouble again. This is when they need help the most.

Fortunately, this measure not only makes sense in helping prisoners, but it will save the state some money. Supervising a man costs about one-fifth as much as keeping him in prison, so that during the first two years the plan is in operation, the state will save approximately $500,000.

There is the added saving of keeping some men from returning, making them taxpayers instead of tax losses.

Also, it would reduce our prison population, making it easier for our prison wardens to do a better job of rehabilitation.

No matter how you look at it, this legislation seems to make sense. It saves lives and it saves dollars.

A Problem to Be Solved

For one reason or another it has always been difficult to sell people on salvation. And if civil defense is to be anything other than the continuing fiasco it has been to date, then "salvation", should nuclear war someday become a reality, is going to have to be sold America in large-size doses.

Locally, county-wide and probably in every other area of the country, civil defense chiefs and administrators have been fighting a lost cause. Efforts to arouse a complacent citizenry on the simplest of precautions has met with nothing more than tepid response, if that.

Sirens wail in practice alerts, causing no more than a ripple of excitement. Civil defense meetings are called and a half-dozen, maybe a dozen interested residents turn out.

From the top down it is apparent that civil defense efforts to date have been virtually nil. Frank B. Ellis, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, is preparing a new program of civilian defense for presentation to the President. His estimate of the existing program — "completely unrealistic."

Worse yet, the program has been completely unrealistic from the beginning.

Discounting the need for adequate protection in case of nuclear attack, let's take a look at what might happen in Antioch and surrounding vicinity in case a nuclear explosion occurred in Chicago.

Chicago is the world's prime strategic target.

More steel is produced in the Chicago area than in any other place in the world. It is a center of oil refining. It has the world's largest railroad marshalling yard at Proviso; it is the gateway from the west to the east, in turn from east to west; it is a major meat processing area, the world's grain terminus, a financial center rivaling Wall Street.

In addition, some 5 million people live in and around the city.

A 20 kiloton bomb is dropped. This is the same size bomb dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. This is an outmoded size for use on other than military targets. We now think in terms of megatons, a few thousand, a few million times more powerful.

We reserve the 20 kiloton size for tactical use, as it is now deliverable by means of artillery/small rocket.

But let's stay with the 20-kilo size.

85 percent of all persons within a 1000 yard radius of ground zero would be killed, serious casualties would extend out to 3500 yards of ground zero.

That wouldn't have too much effect on people 10, 15, 20, 50 miles away. Or would it?

A bomb is dropped in the midst of a panic-stricken mob of 5 million. Water lines are broken, sewers, electricity go out . . . no lights, no heat, no water. With no electricity, no water can be pumped. And what water there is would be contaminated and undrinkable.

What about food? There are no supermarkets to visit at leisure tonight for provisions.

So the 5 million panic-stricken, fight their way away from the area of chaos. Those with gassed up cars may be able to negotiate clogged highways and streets. But it's doubtful. A normal evening's homeward rush is a tedious, nerve-wracking affair.

So the populace must make it out on foot. There's no other way.

Antioch hasn't been effected yet. But it will be. The survivors of the 5 million make their way out into the countryside . . . on foot, on bicycle. They have no food, no extra clothing, no water, no place to sleep. No medicines, no nothing excepting a stark fear and a desire for survival.

They swarm like locusts over the countryside. They need food. Can the local markets satisfy the demand? Is it first come first served; is it the law of supply and demand; what about prices? Does the merchandise - what there is of it because none will be shipped in over wrecked rail lines and clogged highways - go to the highest bidder?

Who determines who gets what and when? Do our law enforcement agencies take over, even if they could? Is there a military organization at hand to direct traffic, maintain order, route people and supplies.

Thousands need bed and board. Can they be taken into local homes? Will local residents take them in? A man and his family need shelter, food, water. Will local residents satisfy these needs . . . even if they could?

Who takes charge? Who organizes? Who determines who sleeps where and how? Who places a guard on water, food and clothing supplies? Who rations the supplies and portions them out? Who does what, if anything?

What about the sick and injured? Under normal circumstances, waiting rooms are filled from morning until night. What about medical care during the emergency?

Who directs the doctors to where their need is greatest? Where are the medical supplies? Where is everything? Who guides, who directs, who ministers, who organizes, who is responsible?

Do we revert to the law of the jungle?

Until these few questions and countless more are planned for and answered in an active, logical civil defense program to be rehearsed and studied and rehearsed again, civil defense as it now exists is woefully inadequate.

But, nonetheless, the possibility and danger is always with us.

Meanwhile, citizens can partially prepare on their own — by stocking a minimum two week supply of canned food, by storing at least 50 gallons of drinking water in airtight containers, by storing a few gallons of kerosene, by preparing a disaster kit of basic medical supplies.

Local, county, state and national civil defense chiefs welcome inquiries and are prepared to give all assistance within their capabilities. For further details, contact your local Civil Defense Office (in Antioch, John L. Horan, 407 Orchard).

Chain of Lakes Water Meets Pollution Standards as Recreational Resource

On the basis of the summer sampling program and the present absence of significant sources of fresh sewage pollution, John G. Morris, Chief Sanitary Engineer of the Lake County Health Department, announced that the quality of the water in the Fox Chain of Lakes at the stations sampled meets established standards and is highly satisfactory as one of Lake County's recreational resources.

This survey by the health department was conducted in cooperation with the Lake County Federation of Improvement Association.

Mr. Morris said that there are three criteria which determine the value of an area as a recreational resource. The first of these criteria is the actual environmental conditions that surround the area. In the Fox Chain of Lakes, the condition is good because only one community sewage system is discharging into the Chain. This system has one of the highest quality effluents in Lake County and uses a sand filter during all of the summer vacation season.

The second criterion which must be met in determining whether or not an area is an adequate recreational resource is that of the quality of the water. The quality of the water in the Fox Chain of Lakes as measured in the summer sampling program is very good. Using a classification system recommended by American Public Health Association and the Illinois Department of Public Health, the Lake County Health Department has determined that there are 14 Class A sampling points, 7 Class B sampling points and only one Class C and Class D sampling points.

Morris continued by saying that the third important criterion determining the acceptability of a recreation resource is that of the presence of water-borne disease. Epidemiological investigation conducted by the health department has not revealed any water-borne illnesses occurring in the county that could be traced to the swimming areas in the Fox Chain of Lakes as the source of infection.

Morris added that this sampling and survey program will be con-

Now's the Time To Protect Fruit Trees by Spraying

Aphids, mites, fruit tree leaf rollers and oyster shell scale are now on fruit trees—overwintering in ducted again this summer by the health department and that constant vigilance by the health department, and communities and individuals bordering the Chain or streams tributary to the Chain, must be maintained. This is necessary to insure the continuance of this healthful condition and high quality bathing water by preventing the discharge of inadequately treated wastes.

the egg stage, according to Jack Wright, University of Wisconsin insect specialist. He reports that up until this year, a dormant Elgetol spray was applied before the buds break to kill these insects in the egg stage. But research at Sturgeon Bay proves that results from this dormant spray haven't been satisfactory due to poor coverage and weather. So the dormant spray is not now recommended.

Wright recommends control when these insects are in the mobile stage by applying DDT in the pink stage as the first insecticide applied. If the DDT has already been applied and the fruit tree leaf roller is a problem, use Malathion: Add Ovx to control mites.

The specialist says at petal fall, DDT is excellent for codling moth that will hatch soon. Add dieltrin for plum curculio control. Then use the same materials in the first cover spray for codling moth and plum curculio.

Wright says to control the red banded leaf roller add T.D.E. to the first cover spray. From here on alternate DDT and lead arsenate in the cover sprays just as in the past.

The insect specialist urges orchardists to obtain a copy of the 1961 Insect and Disease Control Circular from the county agent's office.

A schedule, which is less complicated and frequently used by the small grower of 10 trees or less—is also available.

Bare Ruling For Marine Toilets In Boats On Lake County Waters

Persons owning boats with marine toilets must comply with the Lake County ordinance requiring that the toilet be sealed, if the boat is used in the inland water of Lake County, Arthur G. Baker, M. D., Director of the Lake County Health Department, warned today.

Sealing of marine toilets may be accomplished by driving a plug in the inlet pump and outlet discharge on the boat. This can be done by a marina operator or by the boat owner himself when the boat is out of the water. This operation does not damage the boat and the plugs can be removed if the boat is transported to Lake Michigan where the restriction on the use of marine toilets does not prevail.

Health department sanitarians, operating under Ward Duell, Senior Sanitarian, will affix a decal to the windshield of the boat when the marine toilet has been satisfactorily sealed. Enforcement of this ordinance represents one step in the program of keeping Lake County waters free from pollution, so that bathing beaches, home sites and fishing will not be impaired.

Mr. John G. Morris, Chief Sanitary Engineer of the Lake County Health Department, stated that one purpose of the health department is to preserve the recreational resources of Lake County.

In order to preserve this resource, any waste disposal into it must have been rendered completely free of being a public health hazard and be esthetically acceptable. The pollution discharged from boats with present day marine toilets does not meet these standards.

Although there have been recently developed chemical marine toilets, Mr. Morris stated that the health department's position is that use of these in the inland waters of Lake County is in violation of the ordinance.

He stated that there are three factors to be considered in relation to this type of marine toilets. They are: contact time, state of the material when discharged, and the concentration of the chemicals.

The time that the waste is in contact with the chemical is never constant, because increased use shortens contact time considerably.

The state of the waste material is not esthetically acceptable even though it has been broken down into smaller pieces and decontaminated by chemicals.

The third factor is that maintenance of the equipment and the concentration of the chemicals is not held constant. This may be due to the natural lack of technical knowledge by the boat owner or his oversight.

There is also the additional problem of the extreme density of boats in certain areas of the inland waters. These areas are the mooring areas, the narrow channels between the lakes, and in the coves and bays.

Lake County is not unique in legislation prohibiting the use of marine toilets in inland or crowded waters. New York State prohibits discharge of effluents into the recreational water area of the Lake Champlain and Lake Placid area; California allowed no direct discharge into Squaw Creek during the 1960 Winter Olympics; Wisconsin prohibits no unsealed marine toilets in any inland waters except the Mississippi and Lake Winnebago; and the City of Chicago does not permit the use of them in any of the mooring areas.

Mr. Morris added that it is obvious that the less pollution in any form that is introduced into our lakes, the better, so that total elimination of any pollution source, such as marine toilets, is desirable.

Antioch Held To One Blow In 4-0 Loss

George Williams put a hex on Sequoit hitters last Friday in allowing but one base hit in leading the Round Lake Panthers to a 4-0 win at Round Lake.

A sharp double play by Joe Pleviak in the third was the only safe blow for the locals who went down for their fourth conference loss.

Still looking for their first win of the season, the Antioch squad made a game of it through the top of the sixth and were down 1-0 when the Panthers pushed across three runs in their half of the inning to ice the game.

In chalking up his second straight win to boost Round Lake into second with a 3-1 record, Williams fanned 15 Sequoits and was in command most of the way.

Antioch threatened in the second with two on and two out, but Williams fanned his man to end the inning.

Although the Sequoits were weak at the plate, the squad average is .194 to date—they had runners on base in every inning but the first and fifth as Williams had minor trouble with control in walking five.

The Panthers scored in the second on a two base error and one of their seven hits. From then on until the sixth it was a close battle between Bill Ozga and Williams. Although overshadowed by Williams' nifty performance, Ozga handled his chores well, holding the Panthers to seven hits and walking but four. He has been the victim of critical errors in all games to date, and would have gone into the sixth holding Round Lake scoreless except for a mate's fielding lapse in the second.

The Panthers started their uprising in the sixth with a walk to Tom O'Brien, who stole second and scored on Jim Fenger's third hit of the evening. Jim Brundahl worked Ozga for a walk, and both runners advanced on Woody Baumgartner's out, and scored moments later on Tom Lee's single to right.

Fenger with three of the Panthers' seven hits, and Ed Zepka with two, were big guns for the visitors:

Sees Danger Of Closed Shop In U. S. Building

WASHINGTON—April 19—The building trades industry will be handed a "closed shop" and thus an absolute monopoly in the construction industry if Congress passes legislation it is now considering, a spokesman for the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce said in Washington today. He urged that the good accomplished by past labor reform bills not be scuttled.

Robert W. Bird, chairman of the State Chamber's Labor Relations Committee, called the attempt "special privilege legislation" which would give the building trade complete control over the construction industry.

Bird testified before a House Education and Labor subcommittee which is conducting hearings on a measure (HR 2955) to legalize virtually all common situs picketing at construction sites. A similar measure (S 640) is pending in the Senate.

"If HR 2955 is enacted into law, it is possible that it will have far-reaching effects never contemplated by drafters of the bill. We believe that the bill, as now written, goes far beyond the limits of the construction industry," Bird said.

Bird, who is assistant to the president, Oliver Corporation, Chicago, used his own company to illustrate the adverse effects of the proposed legislation. Pointing out that Oliver, which sells farm and industrial machinery, clearly is no part of the construction industry, Bird showed how the bill could subject his company to the secondary boycott squeeze even though it has no dispute with its employees or a union representative.

He explained that Oliver has a plant which it is planning to substantially remodel and which will require both interior and exterior work. "As the bill is now written, our plant under such circumstances will become a construction site," Bird said. "Picketing at our plant, even though directed at the general contractor or subcontractor, will have the effect of not only closing down all of the construction work being performed, but also of closing down the entire plant."

"Records of the National Labor Relations Board reflect that the greatest percentage of all boycotts are perpetrated by the building trade unions," Bird asserted. "Clearly, the building trade unions are the greatest offenders when it comes to secondary boycotts, and since they use this weapon so extensively, it is no wonder they are desirous of having the entire field of secondary boycotts open to them for their use."

Bird contended that the record clearly shows it was the intent of Congress in passing the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947 and the Landrum-Griffin Act in 1959 "to prohibit the very kind of unfair union activity that would be permitted with the passage of this legislation."

Everyday Low Prices On Your Everyday Needs

Ladies, Take It From Pearl—You Can't Win

By Mrs. Pearl Kapell

The price of food being what it is, one of the biggest challenges a housewife faces nowadays is to shop those bargains in grocery items.

There comes a day—more and more frequently, of late—when every woman eyes her weekly food bill with dismay.

There's a limit to the number of times you can serve spaghetti and meat balls in one week. You reach a point of diminishing returns. You've reached it when your younger children say they're not hungry at meal times and then nag you for money for candy. And your older offspring—those with cars—and your husband inform you they must be elsewhere at dinner time. And you are left with a mountain of spaghetti and a meat ball that won't be eaten unless you eat it. And you've had it, too.

This is when you decide, instead of doing your weekly shopping in the same old store, in the same old rut, that you will watch for bargains. A dime here and two cents there counts up, you know. It must be true. You've been hearing it all your life. Of course, nobody ever specifies what it counts up to. An ulcer, maybe?

You start by perusing all the food ads zealously. Each store has a big sale on at least one item each week-end. So you get smart. You decide to visit the three which really have smashing sales. You'll buy the sale item at each place and really save money.

You start on your shopping trip with the high hopes and fervent zeal of a crusader. At last you're doing something really practical about that melting money! Your husband will beam happily when you show him how much you've saved. Your friends will all envy you for being such a clever, efficient person. Your mind is already playing around with all those left-over dollars. A new permanent, maybe? Or that lovely dress that you can't afford?

You bounce gaily into the first store, alert and fresh. You start through the store with a cart, looking for the advertised sale item. On the way, you notice with delight that this store has several delectable items someone in the family just loves which are not carried by the store where you regularly shop.

Oh, well, might as well give the family a treat. The diet has been pretty dull of late, and you're going to save so much money you can afford a little treat.

It helps if you have a woman friend with you. She will point out anything you might miss, and tell you how her family dotes on this or that. It sounds so good you buy it. When you serve it to your family, you will be loudly reminded that one man's meat is another man's poison, and her family evidently has quite different tastes than yours.

The one thing she forgets to point out to you is a real bargain in a staple you use regularly. It isn't until you get to the next store that your friend asks you if you got the eggs that were three dozen for $1.00. In this store, they're 50c a dozen.

However, you forgot to call her attention to the coffee which was on sale for 20c a pound less than usual, so you're both broken-hearted. You resolve to go back. You proceed through the second store, loading your basket with various necessities. You spot a pyramid of cans, topped by a huge placard saying "4 for 88c". Ah, that must be a real bargain. You take four cans, debating as to whether or not to take eight. But it's peas, and your family isn't too crazy about peas.

By the time you check out of the second store, and go on to the third one, you're getting very tired and hungry. You're so hungry, everything in the store looks simply delicious. You pick up several items which will make a quick snack when you get home—and heaven knows, you need it. And you're too tired to cook anything. You toss in several extra items just because they look so good.

When you check out of the last store, you're surprised to notice that your stock of cash is running very low. You're certain you had plenty. You count quickly, add up frantically in your head, and have just enough to pay for what you've got. You get home exhausted. As you wearily tote all those bags of groceries into the house, you feel a little let-down. Your purse is awfully empty, and you have a dismal feeling that you've spent more than you should have.

As you unpack your purchases, the dismal feeling persists. You find that hunger has lured you into purchasing far too many perishable bakery goods and unnecessary snacks. Also, you have more frozen foods than you're ever going to be able to cram into the freezer portion of your refrigerator. As you put away the four cans of peas you bought for 88c, your eye lights on a can of peas already on the shelf. The top is clearly marked "2 for 33c". Some quick mental arithmetic convinces you that the large sign does not necessarily guarantee the most economy.

As you finally sit down to a cup

4-H Clubs Lay Plans for Spring, Summer Activity

A high early enrollment in the 16 agricultural 4-H clubs is good assurance that Lake County will meet its goal of 425 members. Last year there were 400 members enrolled in Agricultural projects. All of the clubs are off to a good start this year with Grayslake and Millburn Hornets in the lead, with 114 members and 39 members enrolled respectively. Enrollments in the other clubs are: Deerfield, 12; Flynn Valley, 37; Gilmer Pacers, 5; Gurnee Gremlins, 4; Happy Hayceeds, 15; Ivanhoe, 11; Newport Champions, 17; North Prairie, 15; Oak Grove Wizards, 10; Ranahan Riders, 3; Vernon Jr. Farmers, 15; Volo, 17; Wauconda, 11; and We Willing Workers, 10.

Projects in which members can still enroll are automotive maintenance, bird study, farm concrete, electricity, honey production, entomology, garden, crops, first year forestry, home grounds improvement, first year, gardening indoors, potato, small fruit, beef feeding, purebred beef calf, purebred dairy calf, mare and foal, beginning horsemanship, chick brooding, turkeys, ducks, geese, capons, guineas, rabbit, purebred ewe lamb, market hog feeding, purebred gilt, goat, doe kid; second year soil improvement, wildlife conservation, photography, handicraft.

Any youth in Lake County who will be ten years of age or older by July 1 is eligible to join one of the sixteen agricultural clubs. The names and addresses of the leaders can be secured from the office of farm adviser, Ray T. Nicholas, Grayslake.

of coffee and some of those snacks you bought, all the fine zest of the morning is gone. You moodily add up your expenditures. You've spent $10 more than last week. Your feet hurt. Someone ran a shopping cart into your leg and your nylons have sprung a run.

As you think over the events of the morning, you realize what went wrong. You were too enthusiastic—and too hungry. Next week you'll eat a full meal before you go. And buy nothing except what you actually need.

It won't work, of course. You're up against the finest, most skilled minds in the advertising world every time you enter your local supermarket.

Next week you'll pass up a sale on nylons. In the middle of the week, your stockings will all suddenly spring runs and you'll have to go out and buy a pair in a hurry which will cost you twice as much. And you'll switch back to your resolve to take advantage of real bargains.

Or you'll almost reach the check-out counter with a wonderfully small outlay, when you see a sign proclaiming that here is your chance to fill out that set of china you have for only 99c each... or buy those TV trays you've been wanting... or some toy that will keep your house-bound child, who is driving you mad, a toy which will keep him happy for hours.

No, you can't win. Unless you stay home, don't eat (this also removes the necessity for the china) and let your child play with the money you save.

But you might lose a husband.

The average size of swine, beef cattle and egg production enterprises has doubled since 1949. The average size of turkey flocks has increased four times during this same period.

LINDENHURST—The engagement of Gloria Kempksi to Arthur Klass, Jr., was announced Sunday at a party for 35 guests, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kempksi of 305 Beck Road. The young couple plan to be married in September, 1962.

Gloria met Arthur while he was stationed at Great Lakes. Mrs. Kempksi and the couple left here Monday to meet Arthur's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Klass, Sr., of Astoria, N. Y. They plan to spend the weekend there.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Sigmunt Kempksi of 1914 Longmeadow Drive on their 14th wedding anniversary April 19. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sonandres and Mr. and Mrs. William Kempksi spent the evening with them.

The Kempskis have a daughter, Nancy, 12.

Chicago is known as the "windy city," but Lindenhurst can take the prize for being the "windy village." A week ago a strong wind came up and blew Joe LaBarbera's large screen house from in back of his home at 103 Whiteoak Drive, across the street at 106 Whiteoak, where it rested against the garage of Ted Plouviez. Neighbors Mrs. John Quinn, Mrs. Milton Lazansky and Mrs. Howard Lindberg pulled it away from the garage and settled it down in Quinn's back yard at 106. For a while the ladies thought they might be the first ladies to go into orbit. It is hard to visualize such a large object being blown in between two homes without damaging any shrubbery, but that is what happened. No need to say the screen house was demolished.

We are very happy to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Erika) Perkins of Hazelwood Drive to the community. Erika and Bernard met while he was in service in Vienna, Austria, eleven years ago. They moved here from Chicago, where they lived around Montrose and Ashland.

Bernard is originally from Davenport, Iowa. He is employed by the Decorated Picture Frame Company in Mundelein. He enjoys fishing and working around the yard in his spare time.

Erika is proud of her new home that she designed herself. She has plans for landscaping when she can work outside.

Michael, 5, is their only child. He enjoys drawing, building things and playing with Blackie, their cocker spaniel.

The Perkins home is the one that had the "housewarming" before they moved in. If you remember, $2,000 damage was done to the attached garage when it was gutted two weeks before they moved in. To see the home now, you would never know it.

Mrs. Donald (Carol) Bogda of Hawthorne Drive was surprised with a party on her birthday Sunday afternoon. Among the guests Don invited were Mr. and Mrs. Lou (Bert) Harcey and Mr. and Mrs. Ed (Jackie) Jones.

Mrs. Ann Kleban of Chicago was a Sunday visitor at the Barry Kleban home on Longmeadow Drive. Her grandchildren Mitchell, Bradford and Andrea were happy to see her.

Brownie Troop leader Mrs. Raymond (Wyneth) Claffy, 2415 S. E. Thornwood Drive, held a committee meeting in her home last Thursday afternoon. Present were Mrs. Richard Wells, Mrs. Bernice Shepard, Mrs. Earline Pierce and Mrs. Richard Zegan.

They discussed the Day Camp to be held June 20-23 and June 27-30 at Shorelands Park at Third Lake. Also planned was their long range program. It was motioned and seconded to have an Arts and Crafts Workshop.

Their next meeting will be Friday.

Mrs. Frank (Helen) Mindak of 105 N. Hawthorne Drive was operated on last Friday at Resurrection Hospital in Chicago. Grandma Mrs. Jenny Sydelowski of Chicago has been taking care of the four children, Amy, Dawn, David and Dale. The girls spent the weekend with their aunt, Mrs. Bernice Maltstrom in McHenry.

Weather permitting, Brownie Troop 60 that meets every Wednesday after school, will have a cook-out May 3 in the field just off of Beck Road and Valley Drive. Menu for the day will be sloppy-joes, soft drinks and potato chips. Mrs. Henry (Helen) Page is leader and Mrs. Everett (Babe) Standiford is co-leader.

The Altar and Rosary Society of Prince of Peace Church in Lake Villa will hold a bake sale after each mass Sunday.

Seven members of the "Wood-chicks' club went bowling Saturday evening with their husbands at the Antioch Bowling Lanes. Thursday evening they are going out for dinner to the Country Squire, instead of having their monthly meeting.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bob (Dorothy) Smith of Pinecrest Lane had dinner at the Angela's to celebrate Bob's birthday.

The Sunday night it snowed so hard, the John Sutherland family of Hawthorne Drive were stranded in Mokena, Ill., at Georgia's sister's. They wouldn't have minded so much only their boxer dog was home alone and they hadn't fed him before they left. After trying to reach a few friends who weren't afraid of Major they succeeded in calling Ing Splegler of Fairfield Road, who broke a window in the garage to get in. She fed the dog and let him out Sunday and Monday until the Sutherlands arrived home Monday afternoon.

Members of the Lindenhurst Daisies Juniors and Seniors received their applications to go to Camp Shaw-waw-nas-see, near Kankakee. Lake County 4-H members are to go July 10 to 14. Mrs. Andrew Westberg of Woodlane Drive is their leader.

Today, April 27, has been scheduled as conference day at the B. J. Hooper and Lake Villa Central schools. Appointments have been made and report cards were to be discussed and given out.

The Ivy Cancer League plans to make items to be sold at their bazaar today (Thursday), at Mrs. John Slove's home, 2307 East Sunset Lane at 8:15 p.m.

The Lindenhurst Junior Police Club met at the B. J. Hooper School in the all-purpose room April 18.

Russ Bethley instructed the boys in drilling.

Bob Strelcher and Chuck Pawlowski awarded the trophies and ribbons, donated by Don Fitzgerald of Western Tire and Auto Shop in Grayslake, to the winners in the model car contest that ran for two months and ended Feb. 28. The winners in the 7 to 9 age bracket were 1st place: Donald DiSilvestro; 2nd, Mike Tumminello, and 3rd, Doug Sanders Jr.

In the Senior Division, 10 to 13 age bracket were, 1st, Bill Bernau; 2nd, Richard Vitek, and 3rd, Larry Davis.

Squad leaders were told to bring note-books and pencils as they are going to start the demerit system at the next meeting.

Retires After 40 Years With Abbott

Herbert A. Kaufman, of Delaney Road, Gurnee, retired April 15 after more than 40 years of service with Abbott Laboratories. He was assistant to the vice president in charge of production since 1955.

Kaufman, who was employed for two years by the Dow Chemical Co. and was trained at the Dow School of Chemistry, joined Abbott in August, 1920, as a chemist and plant operator in the chemical manufacturing department. Two years later he was promoted to a managership in the department in charge of the production of anesthetics. In 1932, he was named manager of chemical production.

The boys were reminded that they must pay their $1 insurance fee at the next meeting, May 2, or they would not be admitted. The insurance covers them while they are at a meeting or on a tour. They also must show their membership cards to gain admittance.

Parents are asked to drive in at the far north entrance on Sand Lake Road by the gymnasium. Grass seed has been planted on the Beck Road side and the boys are requested to keep off the grass.

The films did not arrive in time to be shown. It is planned to show them at the next meeting. Boys having gym shoes are asked to wear them at all meetings, otherwise they will have to stand in their stockings. The evening ended up with the boys playing a little basketball.

If you have any rummage around your home that you are anxious to get rid of, the Venetian Village Women's Auxiliary would appreciate receiving it for their sale Friday and Saturday, this week. Call Ella Slavik at Elliot 6-7104 for pick-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Emert Roos of 1952 Old Elm Road were married 13 years April 24. They have four children, Steven, Debra, Danny and Betty Jo.

A friendly welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Alberta) Robinson of 2314 Rolling Ridge Lane. They moved into their new home around the first of March. Their home formerly was one of the model homes. They moved here from Chicago, around North Avenue and Western. They are originally from Central City, Ky.

They have been married 10 years and have three children, Michael, Marie and Edward. Charles works for Mohon Sheet Metal in Chicago. Before she moved here Alberta worked for Stewart Warner.

The VFW Auxiliary is sponsoring a May dance this Saturday at the VFW Hall on Grand Ave. and the Soo Line Road. The Rhythm Kings start playing at 9 p.m. A May queen will be chosen and showered with gifts.

In March 1933, Navy medical officers and corpsmen took an active part in the relief work following an earthquake at Long Beach, Calif.
